DEMOCRATS' FIGHT TO HOLD MAINE

Portland, Me., Sept. 3.—The democratic fight to win the Maine state election began in earnest today with the arrival of Representative W. C. Redfield of New York to deliver the first of a series of speeches to be made by prominent party leaders from outside the state. The election will take place next Monday and a desperate struggle is on between the democrats and republicans to capture the state, which is regarded as the political pacemaker in presidential years. In view of the republican split the democrats believe they will not only be able to re-elect Governor Plaisted but will also capture the legislature and send Senator Gardner back to Washington for a full term. They are also confidently expecting to carry three if not all four of the congressional districts. The republicans are aiming to keep the state and national contests separate, but the democrats are making one fight of it in the belief that they have a better chance of capturing the farmer vote by injecting the tariff and other national issues into the state campaign.

BULL BOOSERS CAN'T GET PLACE ON TICKET

Oklahoma City, Ok., Sept. 2.—E. L. Persons of Chickasha, Progressive candidate for congressman at large, was denied in the Oklahoma County Superior court today a mandamus against the State Election Board directing that his name be placed on the general election ballot for November. Persons filed his application with the state election board prior to the primary election, but his name did not go on the primary ballot. Judge E. D. Oldfield of the superior court held that at the time filing was made with the Election Board the Progressive party was not in existence; also that as Persons was not nominated in the primary he could claim no place on the general election ballot.

Persons gave notice of appeal. Papers are ready for filing suit in the supreme court, through which the progressive organization expects to have its state ticket placed on the November ballot.

MORE YET TO COME.

EVENTS OF THE DAY

Meetings Were Held This Morning and Afternoon—Daughters in Session.

About 200 Veterans and a large number of Sons, Daughters and other visitors have arrived to date for the reunion, and many more are expected on the trains of this afternoon. The downtown headquarters and bureau of information are at the Pontotoc building, where all are received on arriving. The city is well decorated with bunting and with Confederate flags, together with a few national flags. A large banner bidding the visitors welcome is hanging across Main and Broadway.

The veterans and other visitors have met every train and looked carefully after the arrivals. The only hitch that has occurred was the fact that in the general rush of preparation no blankets were provided for the cots on which the veterans sleep in the tents on the normal grounds. The committee has appealed to the citizens for relief and it is hoped that all who can spare a blanket or comfort will answer the appeal and assist in this urgent need.

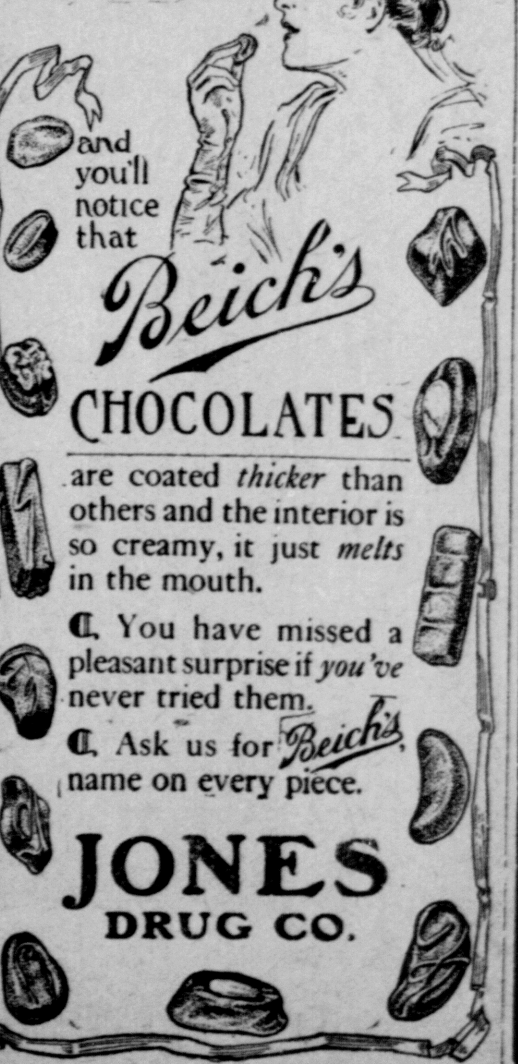

Before eight o'clock this morning the old soldiers and other people visiting the reunion began to gather at the normal in great crowds. By the time for calling of the convention to order, had arrived there were almost a thousand people in and around the building. There were between two and three hundred of the veterans themselves. This does not include those who came in on today's trains. These will carry the number to about four hundred.

The Sons and Daughters of the Confederacy are very prominent in the crowd, and both held separate meeting this morning.

Everything so far has gone along with almost lightning speed, and every one seems to be having the time of his life. The veterans say they never had better things to eat and the scenery of the building, the beautiful grounds, and the pleasant breeze that blows continually make things very agreeable indeed.

Practically all the state officers are here, including all three organizations (Continued on Page Four.)

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN BOOK

The "High Cost of Living" is the keynote of the democratic text-book for 1912, issued today by the Democratic National Committee. The fallacy of a protective tariff is exposed in a series of articles prepared by experts who have made a special study of the numerous schedules of the Payne-Aldrich bill. Under the headings, "The High Cost of Living," "Wool, the Keystone of the Arch," "Cotton Manufacturers," "Tariff Board a Fraud," "How Tariff was Raised on Cotton," "Dolliver on Protection," "Protection and Farmer," "Taft's Best Law ever," "The Family Sugar Bowl," "How Prices Have Soared," "Tariff and Manufacturers," "The Tariff in the Home," "Would Save $20,000,000,000," "United States Consumers Pay Piper." The system of protection is attacked from every angle. It is the most comprehensive and carefully prepared exposure of its kind ever made from any political text-book.

The trusts are taken care of in an able fashion. There is an article bristling with new facts, concerning the famous absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company by the United States Steel corporation in 1907; the report of the Harvester Trust, which President Roosevelt held up at the request of George W. Perkins, together with the correspondence thereon, are published in full. The result of the Stanley Investigation of the United States Steel Corporation is taken care of in two articles, "The Greatest of Trusts," and "How Interests Control." The interesting features of the book are "The True Roosevelt," by William H. Taft, and "The True Taft by Theodore Roosevelt." These articles are simply compilations of extracts from the speeches of these two men delivered in 1908 and 1912. They make a novel and amusing exhibit.

The data on the life and work of Governor Wilson and Governor Marshall is very complete. The story of the former's life was written by William Bayard Hale, the widely known magazine writer. The laws that these two men have caused to be enacted for the benefit of labor, and the public health, are treated special. There are many other articles giving information concerning practically every subject that may be discussed in the campaign.

In getting out the book so early, the Democratic National Committee has not only beaten the republican and Third Term parties, but has broken all democratic records. In former campaigns this book has appeared the latter part of September or the first of October. The Text Book Committee which had charge of the preparation of the book was composed of Josephus Daniels, Chairman of the Bureau of Publicity; James T. Lloyd, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee; and Robert Wickliffe Woolley; the latter was the editor in charge of the work.

Typographically the book is said by experts to be the best one ever turned out by a campaign committee. The price of the book is 25 cents a copy and orders will be filled from either the Chicago or New York Democratic National Headquarters.

See Us Before You Buy Your Coal.

Remember that we only handle the highest grades of coal and pick from the best mines in a district. As the ice business draws to a close, and on account of warm and cool days we wish to keep our ice delivery good and therefore we will sell coal at about cost for a while so that we can keep our men busy. Remember our prices are never any higher for our high grades of coal than others charge for any kind of coal. We load our wagons with a fork which insures coal free from slack; we can use the slack in our boilers, and get some use of it, but for stoves it's worthless, so why not buy the best while it cost you no more and may cost you less. Our leader this year will be the same as we have handled for three years which is No. 6 Dewar. We will also have the highest grade of McAlester in stock. We run our own tests on coal, we don't take the other fellows word for it. All coal that comes to our boiler room is tested for heat units, we give our customers the benefit of this as well as the benefit of our long experience as coal users, we claim to know coal when we see it, in fact we are experts in this line, so please see us before placing your orders and avoid any chance in a disappointment in your winter coal. ## VANISHING HUSBANDS

In a recent number of the Women's Home Companion appeared an article entitled "Vanishing Husbands" in which the author showed how ordinary men folks like to get away from the women folks and go off by themselves to enjoy each other's society. A woman in Texas wrote as follows to the Woman's Home Companion about the article:

"I live in a town with a population something less than two thousand. 'Tis true that the benches in front of the livery stable are whittled and that some of the corner posts look the worse for wear, but they were put in this condition by those whose occupation mainly is 'brick-pressing for Street-Walker Co.' and are either boys whose pas didn't have any store to put them to clerking in, or men who everybody knows are no 'count. Let me give you a few instances that I know about.

"I'll begin with my father. He is a very, very busy lawyer. Ever since he has been married—twenty-two years—he has had to work night and day, but there was never a time but what he would have preferred to remain at home, had the chance been given him. He was always glad when the storm was entirely too hard for him to brave it so that he could stay at home with my mother, reading, playing with the children or sitting close to the piano while my mother played.

"My uncle is a man of musical tastes, so is his wife. He never leaves home for an hour, outside of his working hours, without his wife, and not because she tags either; and his time is spent in taking her to the nicest things in town or spending the evening with music, either at home or with a friend, or playing tennis early in the morning.

"On the other side of the fence our neighbor is a man who prefers home to town all the time, yet he makes a good living for his family. He and his wife spend spare hours working together among the flowers and trees. "I could give many other examples of non-vanishing husbands among my acquaintances, but these will suffice."

VETERANS IN POSSESSION OF THE CITY

The Veterans, the Daughters, and the Sons. The program is being carried out, with a few slight changes, just as it was prepared.

General Session This Morning.

The convention was called to order by Gen. D. M. Hailey. The band then played Dixie to call the people into the hall. Invocation by Chaplain General, Rev. T. F. Brewer, followed.

C. W. Briles, president of the Normal, delivered the address of welcome. In beautiful phrases and well chosen words, Mr. Briles spoke briefly of the work the Confederate soldiers did in the hard days from '61 to '65. He said, "I am glad to welcome to these halls the remnants of the greatest army that ever marched to the tune of martial music."

After speaking of the value of reunions, he paid some glowing tributes to the honesty and sincerity of the southern people.

Captain Roddie, an old veteran but hearty and jolly to the core, addressed the reunion for forty minutes. He delved into the historical and political causes that led up to the war. He was interrupted from time to time with applause, as his comrades voiced the sentiment that he was giving. Some of his best sentences were:

"The New England soldier might have been a coward and would run from an approaching army, but the northern soldiers of the West could be conquered only with shot and shell."

"We have no apologies to offer for the course we took in the war. We were legally and historically right. I have an utter contempt for the so-called historian who gives excuses for the action of the South."

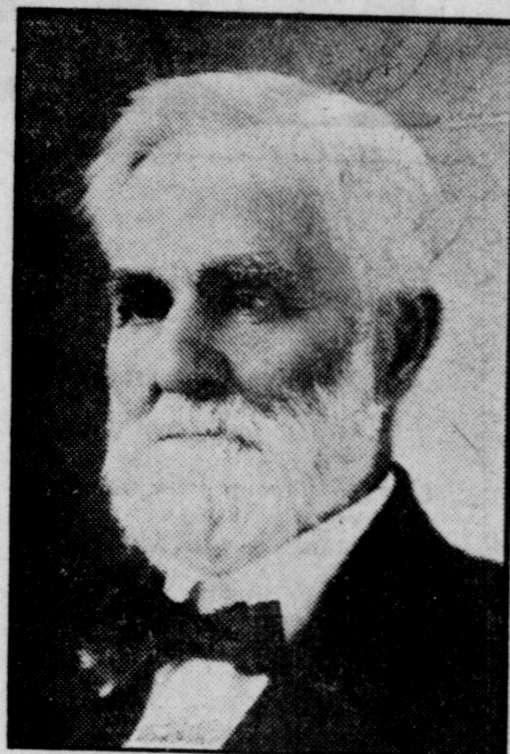

The Captain ended his address by paying a fine tribute to the memory of Jefferson Davis.

After the appointment of the different committees, services in memory of the honored dead were held. The old men sat with down-cast eyes and sad expressions as the list of their dead comrades was read. The list was longer this time than ever before, and all seemed to appreciate the fact that it is only a matter of time till their meetings will be no more. The list was read by Adjutant General, R. B. Coleman.

Meeting of U. D. C.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy met this morning in the library of the Normal. Mrs. W. R. Clement, of Oklahoma City, the state president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Tom Hope gave the address of welcome in behalf of the Daughters living at Ada and also in behalf of the town. Mrs. T. D. Davis, of McAlester, first vice president of the state organization, responded.

The only discordant note that has been struck in the reunion and that is likely to be the last one was a slight difference of opinion that arose in this meeting over some trouble in the Shawnee chapter. A warm discussion arose as to what delegates should be seated but no final action was taken.

This afternoon Mayor Ratliff delivered his address of welcome which was responded to by Col. A. P. Watson, who in course of his remarks paid a glowing tribute to sweethearts.

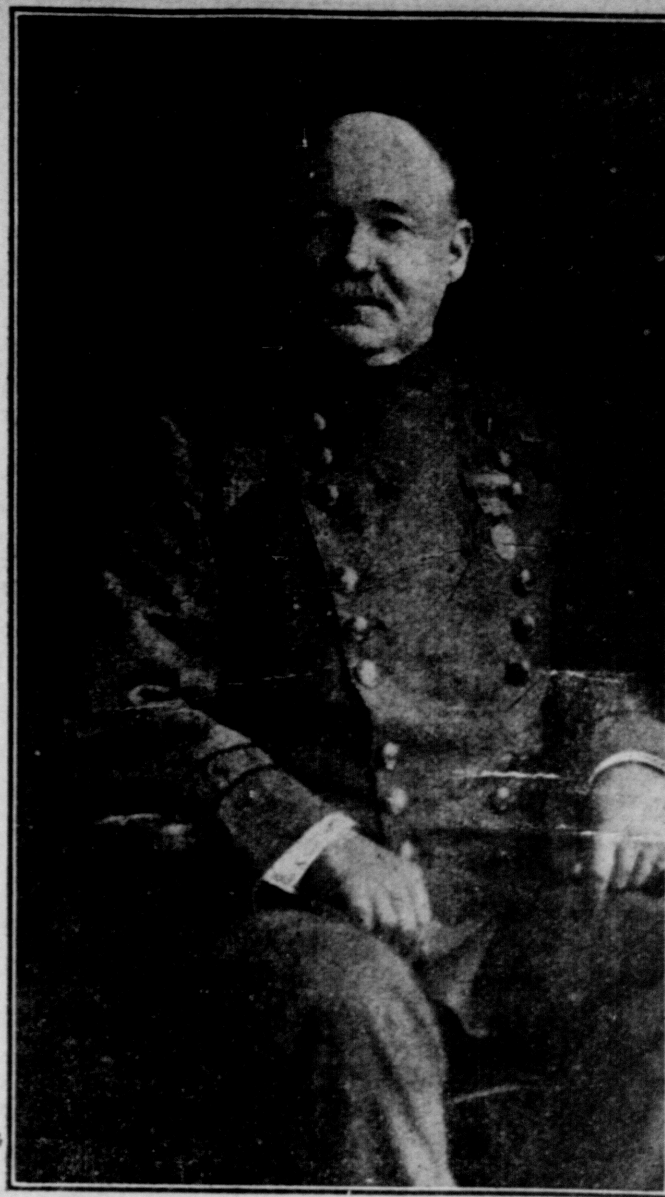

On behalf of the local veterans J. W. Davis welcomed the visitors. A. M. Barrett of Vinita made an appropriate response.

At the hour of going to press Gen. D. M. Hailey is addressing the gathering, his subject being "The Confederate Veterans of the Reunion."

Trial of Victor Allen.

Wytheville, Va., Sept. 4.—The case of Victor Allen, one of the mountain outlaws charged with complicity in the Hillsville Courthouse murders last March, was called for trial today. Victor Allen is the last to be tried of those taken into custody for the murders. Floyd and Claude Allen, father and son, are under death sentences. Friel Allen has been sentenced to eighteen years' imprisonment and Sidna Edwards to fifteen years. Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards, the alleged ringleaders in the raid on the courthouse which killed six people, are still at large.

Those who expect to enter vehicles for the $5 prize offered by the committee for the best decorated rig of any kind, had better get busy. Friday will be the great day.

GEN. JOHN THREADGILL, Commander First Brigade U. C. V.

THREE DEATH SENTENCES AFFIRMED

COURT OF APPEALS SETS OCT. 4 AS DAY OF EXECUTION. UP TO GOVERNOR.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 3.—Sentences of death imposed by the Oklahoma County District Court against Elijah Turner, Charles Posey and Bob Johnson, negroes, for complicity in the murder of W. H. Archie on the night of March 9, 1911, were affirmed by the Criminal Court of Appeals in an opinion by Presiding Judge Furman. The Court set Oct. 4 as the date for the triple execution. Judges Doyle and Armstrong concur in the findings.

The three defendants with John Henry Prather and James Holmes, also negroes, for the purpose of robbery, halted Archie on Third Street near the temporary state capitol building. After taking his valuables Prather, according to his confession, placed a pistol against Archie's head and fired. The body was found next morning in the street almost opposite the window of the Governor's office, and the second day the negroes were arrested.

Prather readily confessed that he fired the fatal shot. He was adjudged guilty by the District Court and given the death penalty, which the Criminal Court of Appeals sustained, but while he was waiting the sheriff's call to begin the march to the gallows and within a few minutes of the execution, Gov. Cruce commuted his sentence to life in the penitentiary. Holmes was next tried and convicted the death penalty being imposed, which the Criminal Court of Appeals affirmed. Gov. Cruce, after a reprieve in order to allow the case an appeal to the Federal Court, where jurisdiction was later denied, commuted this sentence to life imprisonment also.

The Criminal Court in these cases, as it did in the Holmes case, holds that the confession of Prather that he fired the shot taking Archie's life, does not mitigate the offense of those who joined him in the crime. All are as guilty as one, the court held, and the opinion today says that what was announced in Holmes case may be considered as announced here without actual repetition.

Great as were the Southern people in war, their record since then makes them greater in peace than even in war. The prosperity and growth of the South that has come since the overthrow of the plundering carpet-baggers is in itself a monument to the greatness of the men and women of that era than any that could be raised by the hands of their descendants. To perpetuate the memory of such ancestors should be a matter of intense pride with every Son and Daughter.

DEMOCRATS GAIN IN VERMONT

HEAVY FALLING OFF IN REPUBLICAN VOTE. BULL MOOSERS POLL BIG VOTE

White River Junction, Vt. Sept. 4.—Strength of the new Progressive party in its first line-up against the older parties and the disappearance of the Republican majority for the first time in ten years and the first time in the history of the State in a Presidential year, were outstanding features of the State election in Vermont today.

It was apparent early in the evening that there had been no election by the people, although a sufficient number of Republican Representatives were successful to secure the choice of Allen F. Fletcher by the Legislature.

With about two-thirds of the state complete, it is evident Fletcher, Republican candidate for Governor, has fallen between 5,000 and 6,000 votes below the majority necessary to elect. One hundred and seventy cities and towns out of 246 give:

Fletcher, (Republican) 17,369. Howe (Democrat) 12,722, Metzger (Progressive) 10,760.

Same places in 1910 gave: Mead (Republican) 23,314, Watson (Democrat) 11,025.

The house which will name the governor, is overwhelmingly Republican.

For many years political students have pointed out that any decrease in the Republican majority in Vermont in September below normal of 25,000 has been followed almost invariably by the party defeat in the presidential fight in November. These majorities which have averaged close to 30,000 in all the state elections in Vermont, in presidential years since 1892, were represented today by a bare plurality.

The Republican loss apparently went in a great degree to the Progressives and to a somewhat lesser extent to the Democrats.

The falling off in the Republican vote began with the first returns, while the Progressives all along the line, in some cases carrying towns which had heretofore been regarded as strongly Republican.

Yet the dissatisfaction from the Republican ranks did not extend very far beyond the head of the ticket. Many towns that showed strong Progressive tendencies sent Republican Representatives to the Legislature, so republican party leaders were assured early of a substantial majority on joint ballot for Governor, as the failure of a candidate to get a majority at the polls throws the election in to the Legislature.

Progressive leaders were greatly pleased with the result. It was pointed out that the party had gone into the fight with an organization that was new to politics and was forced to make up with notable orators what it lacked in party management, with Col. Roosevelt leading the charge.

The Democratic managers also derived satisfaction from the early returns, showing, as they did, decided gains over two and four years ago. They also pointed out that these gains

Pretty Mothers

Health is the foundation of all good looks. The wise woman realizes this and takes precautions to preserve her health and strength through the period of child bearing. She remains a pretty mother by avoiding as far as possible the suffering and dangers of such occasions. This every woman may do through the use of Mother's Friend, a remedy that has been so long in use, and accomplished so much good, that it is in no sense an experiment, but a preparation which always produces the best results. It is for external application and so penetrating in its nature as to thoroughly lubricate every muscle, nerve and tendon involved during the period before baby comes. It aids nature by expanding the skin and tissues, relieves tenderness and soreness, and perfectly prepares the system for natural and safe motherhood. Mother's Friend has been used and endorsed by thousands of mothers, and its use will prove a comfort and benefit to any woman in need of such a remedy. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

had been made despite claims of the Progressive speakers that the latter party would recruit some of its strength from Democrats.

The Prohibition and Socialist vote did not vary materially from former years.

Many Republican leaders claimed that the threatening weather contributed to the falling off in party vote. These men stated that the registered vote of Vermont was closed to 120,000 and that had weather conditions been fair the party would have rolled up more than 40,000 for Mr. Fletcher.

The vote for the five candidates for governor from all of the six cities and from 196 out of 240 towns was:

Allen M. Fletcher Republican, 22,366
 Harland B. Howe Democrat, 17,504.
 Rev. Frazier Mertzger, Progressive, 13,630.

Clement F. Smith, Socialist, 976.

Returns up to midnight showed that the next Legislature will contain 110 Republicans, 36 Democrats and 14 Progressive members of the lower branch, as well as 30 Republican Senators.

Walter Templeton, a prominent young bachelor of Shawnee, is the guest of Otis Weaver during the reunion. Both gentlemen arrived this morning.

Interesting Display of Relics.

In the show window of the Madison Drug store today there is a fine display of old weapons paper money and other war relics which were loaned by citizens for the occasion. In Shaw's window is an old battle flag, much tattered and faded, which was carried through the war by a Confederate battalion and under whose folds seven men were killed at Frank lin Tennessee. With it is a sash taken from a Union officer who lost his life trying to take the flag from a Confederate.

OUR HEROES

A Tribute to the Old Soldiers of the U. C. V. by the East Central Normal, Ada, Okla.

This poem, by Prof. A. L. Fentem, is one of the most beautiful tributes yet paid to the Southern cause. By request Mr. Fentem read it to the reunion this morning. A storm of applause swept over the auditorium as he ended reading it.

Sheathed are the swords of the heroes,

Stacked are the muskets they bore,
Furled are their battle-torn banners,
Useless—the warfare is o'er.
Down the last, long, weary incline
That leads to the brink of the grave
March with unfaltering footsteps,
The time-shattered hosts of the brave.

Poet ne'er fitted a measure,
Bard never tuned to a lay
Telling of deeds that were nobler
Than the deeds of the heroes in gray;

Garlands of glory ne'er circled
Brows that were worthy to wear
Crown of a nation's first honor,
Wreath of a Southland's first care.

Say not their cause was unhallowed,
Ye, in whose bosoms ne'er burned
Fires of a patriot's devotion,
Hopes, the oppressor had spurned:
Out of the hell of their struggle,
The God of all nations has wrought
A heaven of peace and of plenty—
Our country, united, blood-bought.

God bless the heroes who struggled—
Fought the good fight to the end—
Willingly spent their last life-drops,
Our Southland's cause to defend.
Give them the honor that's due them,
Mead of the brave and the free.
Foretastes of glory eternal
Let their last bivouacs be.

E'en now, the grim monster they laughed at
On many a blood-reeking field
Calls for his toll, and still fearless.
The battle-scarred veterans yield:
Soon will the last sturdy hero
Answer the final roll call
And rest with the hosts who've gone forward
To the greatest reunion of all.

Public Schools.

In antiquity the masses of the people grew up in ignorance of things literary. Public education—the education that exists for the masses of the people—began, practically, with John Calvin's rule in Geneva, from which time popular education had steadily gained ground. The free school system had its beginning in Great Britain, about the year 1780, with Robert Raikes and his Sunday school movement. It was not until 1860, however, that the free public schools began to get itself firmly rooted in the British Isles. In this country from the start the idea of universal education was championed by Jefferson and other leaders among us, and the idea has never ceased to be fundamental with us, as absolutely necessary to the prevention of the liberty on which the government is founded.

Wisconsin Primary Day.

(Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 3.—Wisconsin voters engaged in a general primary election today for the nomination of candidates for governor and other state officers, representative in Congress, members of the legislature and county officers. Four tickets appeared on the ballot, democratic, republican, prohibitionist and social democratic. Governor McGovern was unopposed for renomination on the republican ticket, though the hostility of Senator LaFollette to the Roosevelt party may have the result of bringing into the field later on a rival candidate to Governor McGovern. The progressives will hold a convention here next week to decide whether they will name a state ticket by petition. Two aspirants contested in the primary for the democratic nomination for governor. They were Adolph J. Schmitz and John C. Karel, both residents of Milwaukee.

In order that there may be no conflict, the sponsors' ball will not open this evening until 10 o'clock, thereby giving every one an opportunity of attending the reception at the normal before going to the ball. Both of these events will be important ones in the reunion and will be occasions to be remembered.

WELL KNOWN ARMY OFFICER RETIRES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—Colonel James N. Allison, chief commissary of the Eastern Division and one of the best known officers of the United States army, was retired today on account of age. At the age of 14 Col. Allison enlisted as a private in the Thirty-ninth Kentucky Infantry, and served in the ranks of that command until the end of the civil war. In 1867 he received an appointment to West Point and graduated in 1871, among his classmates being the late Gen. Frederick D. Grant, Major Gen. George W. Davis, Lieut. Frederick Schwatka, the Arctic explorer, and Lieut. John McKinney, who was killed by the Cheyennes in Wyoming. From 1871 until 1890 Col. Allison was on duty in the West and in those years he became noted as an Indian fighter. In the war with Spain he was the chief commissary of the corps. After that he went to the Philippines, where he was in several of the hard campaigns that followed the war with Spain. Col. Allison's retirement leaves in the active ranks of the army only two officers who fought for the preservation of the Union a half century ago. They are Daniel W. Arnold of the quartermaster's department, who will retire a week from today, and Col. John L. Clem, "the drummer boy of Chickamauga," who will reach the age limit next summer.

This evening the De Sota will present the "Battle of Two Palms" which was the most important engagement in the war between Italy and Turkey in Tripoli. It was made on the spot and accurate in every detail. The fact that it was made by the same people who made Dante's Inferno, is sufficient evidence of its worth.

TEXAS BACHELORS ORGANIZE PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 4.—The Bachelors' Fraternal Protective Brotherhood of Texas, an "insurance" society, is in its incipency here. A dozen bachelors of means last night decided on organization and adopted a name. Soon a state charter will be taken out, according to Lon Beavers, county clerk and a leader of the movement.

The society aims to promote matrimony. All unmarried men are eligible, and the premiums they shall pay will go to defray the "benefit" paid out to a member when he shall marry. The proposed organization already has received many applications for membership. The idea of such an organization came to Beavers, who also is a bachelor, by observing a falling off in the number of marriage licenses his office issued.

Luminous Metal Discovered.

For generations the peasants of Cornwall have handed down a legend that at night there may be seen a faintly luminous metal among the rocks brought from the mines of the county. A British scientist has proved that this story is by no means based on imagination. A specimen of the mineral autunite, which is also found in Wales, was sent to him from Portugal because of its shining character. He finds that it closely resembles artificially prepared salts of uranium, and that its luminosity is due to spontaneous radio-activity. The light it sheds is stronger than that of nitrate of uranium. Upon parting with its water of crystallization the metal loses its luminosity.

WELCOME CONFEDERATES

The veterans in gray are in possession of the city today. Their ranks are thinner when they last met, their faces are more bent and their heads are whiter, but the spirit which took them to the front in 1861 and sustained them through four years of bloody conflict is as young as it was the day they took their departure for the front to join Lee and Jackson in the endeavor to repel the flowing tide of blue, and establish the rights of their states as guaranteed by the constitution.

The world has witnessed many struggles and history teems with accounts of valorous deeds, but none surpasses the heroism of the Confederate soldier, and no page of history tells of men who endured as much privation as he did when fighting for a principle, for even if victory had been won upon the banners of the Confederacy, little reward could be expected by the soldiers further than the supreme consciousness of a duty well and nobly done.

The world has never yet read the history of the war as it really was. In times past most of the writers of history were in the North and were men who were safely in their studies when the events of which they wrote were transpiring. Their accounts are biased and the Southern soldier and the cause for which he fought have never been dealt with justly. However, the truth cannot be always hidden, and before the last of the participants has passed away, due honor will be accorded the Southern Confederacy and its heroic defenders.

It is indeed a pleasure to have them among us as our guests, and it is a pleasure to do all in our power to make their stay among us as pleasant as possible. The News only voices the sentiment of the entire community when it bids the visitors welcome—thrice welcome.

The Vermont State election in September has always been regarded as the straw showing the direction the political wind was blowing in that particular year. The one held Wednesday indicates a storm of cyclonic proportions for the G. O. P. in November. Wilson will be the guiding spirit of said storm and there will be a little left after the storm has passed by.

ENDORSED AT HOME

Such Proof as This Should Convince Any Ada Citizen.

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had. When a man comes forward and testifies to his fellow-citizens, addresses his friends and neighbors, you may be sure he is thoroughly convinced or he would not do so. Telling one's experience when it is for the public good is an act of kindness that should be appreciated.

The following statement given by a resident of Ada adds one more to the many cases of Home Endorsement which are being published about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read it.

M. R. King, merchant, Townsend send avenue and Eighteenth street, Ada, Okla., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are good and I recommend them for use in cases of backache and kidney trouble. I have found that this remedy lives up to all the claims made for it and I gladly recommend it."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—take no other.

Uncle Henry's Aphorism.

"Lean men usually have pessimistic leanings," said Uncle Henry Butterworth. "But the fat fellow who sits down and is a hull cheer full, usually takes a cheerful view of things."

Slightly Mixed.

Chap about to wed was nervous; To the young best man he cried: Tell me, is it kismetary For the groom to kiss the bride?" September Woman's Home Companion.

Tragedy at Italian Wedding.

A distressing incident marred a pretty Neapolitan wedding the other day, and threw several families into mourning. Signor Meninno, a rich country squire, started out for the parish church for the purpose of marrying off his only daughter, a pretty maiden of nineteen. Instead of rice, Meninno, in pursuance of an old custom prevalent in the Neapolitan provinces, had filled his pockets with fireworks, and carried in his hands three big handkerchiefs full of bombs, which he intended to explode at the church door on the exit of the bridal party. While he was at the head of the merry procession of boys and girls, decked out for the occasion in all manner of fantastic costumes, the bombs suddenly exploded with terrific force. Meninno himself was blown to pieces, the bridegroom and many others who had been bidden to the wedding feast were flung to the ground and fearfully mangled, and the adjacent dwellings were shaken to their foundations as by an earthquake.

Nearly Killed by Buck.

William Wosser, a railroad engineer of Sausalito, Cal., was savagely attacked by a buck deer the other day, and probably owes his escape from fatal injuries to the loyalty of his pack of hounds, which succeeded eventually in dragging down the animal. Wosser sighted the deer from an eminence, and inflicted a slight wound. His dogs pursued the animal into a ravine and Wosser followed quite confident, that the wound was fatal. In a clearing in the ravine the buck suddenly charged the dogs, and in the confusion Wosser failed to make good his own escape. Wosser attempted to raise his rifle, but before he could do so the deer was upon him and to save himself he grasped the animal's horns. The maddened and wounded buck did his best to shake the hunter off, and finally succeeded in hurling him to the ground. Three times he gored Wosser in the abdomen, and probably would have killed him but for the hounds.

Her Ambition.

"Poor Harriet Quimby!" said a New York editor, as he regarded a magazine photograph of the dead flying woman. "She used to work for me, and very good stories she wrote, too. When she took to flying and made a success of it, I said to her: 'I suppose, with all this fame, the dearest ambition of your childhood is gratified, eh?' 'No,' she said, smiling, 'I had no desire for fame in my childhood. I remember a school question. 'What is it your highest ambition to be?' The answer I gave to this question was: 'Missionary, and if not that, millinery or clerk in candy store.'"

New Engagement Ring.

A new engagement ring will be fancied by the girl who likes unusual and interesting trinkets. Instead of being set with the conventional solitaire, this ring has two sunken stones; one the birthstone of the groom and the other the bride's special luck talisman. There is a hidden clasp under the setting and the ring may be broken apart, between the two sunken jewels. On the inner faces of gold which form the halves of the separated ring are inscribed the names of the engaged pair, or any tender sentiment, never intended for alien eyes.

Largest Spearhead Found.

The largest spearhead discovered is on exhibition at the state archaeological museum on the campus of the Ohio State university. It is seven and one-quarter inches long and is of white quartzite, says the Columbus Evening Dispatch. The spearhead was found at Fort Ancient, Warren county. More than eight years ago one part of it was dug up and recently a farmer plowed up the other part. The pieces were joined. When the first part was found Curator W. C. Mills of the museum urged that a search be made for the other part.

Indian's Idea of Weight.

An Indian went hunting one day for deer. After tramping through the woods for some hours he came across a herd and managed to kill one. He shouldered it and started for market, which was some five miles away. Now, of course, the longer he walked the heavier the deer got, and by the time he reached the deer market he was about all in. He hung the deer on the scales and stood looking at it with wonder. Finally he said to the man: "Ugh! Let him hang a while." —Mack's National Monthly.

Those Half Votes.

Half votes in national conventions occur in two ways. First, in the case of contested elections, in which two delegates may be allowed half a vote each in order to compromise matters amicably; second, in the case of certain states, which in order to gratify a large number of eligibles to serve their party, 2, 4 or 6 are elected instead of 1, 2 or 3, and each are allowed only half a vote in order to comply with the total number of votes allowed each state.

HIGH AMBITION FOR HIS SON

Fooling Time Studying Art and Literature to Neglect of His Father's Soap Business.

"I understand you are worried about your boy."

"Yes, I am. I'd give $50,000 this minute if I could get him to give up his present companions and go away somewhere out west on a ranch and stay there for a year."

"Is he drinking hard?"

"No, I don't believe he has ever developed a taste for strong liquor. If that was all that ailed him I wouldn't feel so bad. I could rush him off to a sanitarium and have him cured."

"Have you reason to suspect that he wants to marry a chorus girl?"

"No, thank heaven, he don't seem to have any interest in stage folks. But I wish I could get him away from the people he insists on associating with. Unless he changes his habits and ideas right away I'm afraid there won't be any help for him. I think one year on a ranch, where he could be out in the open, punchin' cows or something like that, might bring him through all right and make a man of him."

"Well, what is the matter with him, anyhow?"

"I hate to tell you, but I will, I never thought it would be possible for a son of mine to do such a thing, but the blame chump has an idea that he wants to help spread culture, so he's foolin' away his time studyin' art and literature and insistin' that there's no use of me expectin' him to ever go into the soap business, no matter how big the profits might get to be."

Turn on the Calcium.

The doorbell of the Vanities' house rang at about eight o'clock one night, and Mrs. Vanity said, excitedly, to her husband:

"There, Charles, I know that's the furniture van coming with the new bedroom suite we bought today, and if it is I just won't receive it, that's all."

"Why not?" asked Mr. Vanity.

"Why not?" replied Mrs. Vanity. "Do you think I'm going to pay $100 for a suite and then have it sent out here after dark so that none of the neighbors can see it when it's brought in? Not if I know it."

WHAT SHE WANTED.

Clerk—Perhaps you'd like to look at goods a little more expensive than these.

Shopper—Not necessarily, but I would like to look at some of better quality.

A Happy Married Life.

"I married a suffragette," said Mr. Cholmondeley Rippingate of Hyde Park, "and for five years have found unspeakable happiness."

"I'm glad to hear it," said the suffragette leader.

"Yes," said Rippingate, "Mrs. Rippingate has been in jail four years and three months altogether."—Harper's Weekly.

New to Him.

"I see France has an association which gives loans on the word of honor of the people," said the man in the pawnbroker's shop.

"Word of honor?" said the proprietor of the house with the three gilt balls. "Vat is dat?"

Waived One Formality.

Commander Sponson—Christen him as you will, my dear, but remember, he's only a baby and not a dashing battleship, and I won't have the parson breaking champagne bottles over his little head.—Life.

Slight in the Name.

"Your cry for what is after all but selfish privileges is like our national game!"

"What do you mean?"

"What I say. It is a base ball!"

APPEALED TO HOTEL CLERK

Fair Guest Applied for Object Not Usually Supplied by Hostels, but She Got It.

To be a successful hotel clerk you must have an even temper. There is no man under the sun who has so much to try his temper as a hotel clerk. The night clerk of a certain Baltimore hotel is a young man with the most polished manners. He is especially polite to the ladies, but a few evenings ago he nearly lost his equilibrium when a pretty guest asked him to loan her an alarm clock.

"I must get up very early tomorrow morning," said the fair guest; "can't you loan me an alarm clock—one that I can depend on?"

"I will have you called at any hour you wish," replied the clerk.

"That won't do. You might forget it, and besides, I have no watch, and if I wake up during the night I like to know the time."

The clerk suggested that there was a telephone in the room, but that would not do, so he called the housekeeper, who loaned the fair guest an alarm clock.

ONLY NEEDED TURNING OVER

Remedy Frequently Effective With Small Boy Worked Well With Recalcitrant Mule.

A mule drawing a furniture van down Broadway got tired of the job and lay down. Soon a crowd gathered and ventured all manner of advice to the driver, relates the New York Times.

Louis Scheff, an electrician, of 152 Amsterdam avenue, suggested that twisting the mule's ears would force it to rise, and put his idea into practice, but ineffectually, while the crowd shouted "Whisper in its ear."

Scheff next tried pulling the mule's tail. Mrs. Anna Schott of 304 Amsterdam avenue, a passenger on a Broadway surface car, who is a member of the Humane society, construed the electrician's efforts as cruelty and had Scheff arrested.

Detective Sharp of the West Sixty-eighth Street station, who comes from the south and knows mules, took one look at the fallen mule and said:

"You'll never get that mule up—it's lying on its left side."

"What's that got to do with it?" demanded the driver.

"Everything," replied Sharp.

Ropes were tied to the mule's hoofs, and it was turned over on its right side. Sharp gently kicked the animal in the side and it scrambled to its feet.

Two or Four Kinds of Women.

Someone—probably one of those Frenchmen whose life job it was to make epigrams—once said that there are but two kinds of women: good women and bad women. Ever since then problem playwrights have been putting that fiction into the mouths of wronged husbands and building their "big scene" around it. But don't you believe it. There are four kinds: good women, bad women, good bad women and bad good women. And the worst of these is the last.—American Magazine.

New Car Service Rules.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 31.—New rules announced to be put into effect tomorrow by the roads affiliated with the American Railway Car Association are expected to remedy a grievance of long standing in the railroad world. Up to the present time all railroads have been in the habit of using foreign equipment to any part of the country, providing it was returned to the company within a reasonable length of time. Under this method the smaller lines have had the use of more cars than they actually owned, while the larger roads which owned the equipment have experienced a car shortage, their appeals for the return of their property often going unheeded. The new rules provide that all the foreign equipment must be returned to the owners from the point of destination, and not used by the railroad in whose territory the equipment happens to be to haul freight to points farther away. ere penalties are imposed on companies violating the agreement.

This Date in History.

- 1804—United States ship "Intrepid" blown up in Tripoli harbor.
- 1812—Captain Zachary Taylor successfully defended Fort Mifflin, on the Wabash, against an attack by Indians.
- 1837—Congress convened in extra session to devise measures to relieve the financial embarrassments of the country.
- 1862—General Lee crossed the Potomac and invaded Maryland.
- 1870—French Republic proclaimed.
- 1894—Twelve thousand tailors struck in New York city against the task-work system.
- 1911—Hundreds of lives lost in floods along the Yang-tse-Kiang river in China.

PENNSYLVANIA FLOOD DOES HEAVY DAMAGE

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 3.—The number of fatalities from the flood in western Pennsylvania, the panhandle of western Virginia and eastern Ohio increased to forty today, when it was learned that John Demstel, wife and two children are missing from the ruins of their home at Charlier's Creek, near Canonsburg, Pennsylvania.

The property loss cannot be estimated. All streams throughout a large section left their banks and transportation in all directions from Pittsburg is at a standstill. The storm broke, following twenty-four hours of excessively hot temperature.

Among the fatalities reported are: Colliers, W. Va., nine dead. Some estimates of the fatalities there run as high as twenty-two.

Cherry Valley, Pa., six drowned. Vella, Pa., three drowned. Buggettstown, Pa., one drowned. Many towns are under several feet of water.

The Dubinsky show drew a large crowd last evening, for this show has filled so many dates at Ada that when it advertises its presence in town, the public knows something good is on the boards and no one has yet been disappointed. Read the ad for the show of this evening and govern yourself accordingly.

A TRIBUTE TO VETERANS OF THE CONFEDERACY

Ever since I can remember, I have had a peculiar feeling for the old Confederate soldiers. As a small child when I lay on my back and listened for hours to some old man tell of the thrilling days of war, I looked upon the soldier as a mighty giant, as a person to be admired and adored as a god. As a boy, when I began reading history, I looked on him as a great hero, the greatest the world had ever produced, doing Herculean tasks and asking quarter of no one. Now, as a man, when I have read history more extensively and hear the stories with a different understanding, I look upon him as one who did what he thought was right, and, aided by this thought, he fought as only the just can fight.

As a child, I worshipped him; as a boy I admired him; as a man I honor him.

I cannot agree with the people who say there has never been any necessity for war. I do think that most of the wars could have been avoided, but not all of them. Henry Richard, in speaking of the cost of war, said:

"Give me the money that has been spent in war, and I will purchase every foot of land upon the globe. I will clothe every man, woman and child in an attire of which kings and queens would be proud. I will build a school house on every hillside, and in every valley over the whole earth; I will build an academy in every town and endow it; a college in every state and fill it with professors; I will crown every hill with a place of worship, consecrated to the promulgation of the gospel of peace; I will support in every pulpit an able teacher of righteousness, so that on every Sabbath morning the chime on one should answer to the chime on another around the earth's wide circumference, and the voice of prayer, and the song of praise, should ascend like a universal holocaust to heaven."

Still there have arisen difficulties that could be settled in no other way than by war. The misunderstanding between the North and the South was of such a nature, and the mighty price of money and human sacrifice had to be paid. Each side was sure that it was right, and under such conditions war became a honorable.

The arms are fair, When the intent of bearing them is just."

War is honorable In those who do their native rights maintain, In those whose swords an iron barrier are Between the lawless spoiler and the weak."

The Southern soldier went to the battle field with a firm and steadfast determination to win, and they came near doing so. The North sent nearly four times as many soldiers to the field as the South sent. Beside this great advantage in numbers, the North had a well established government and one of the brightest jewels that ever lived at the head of it, it had well established industries, both mechanical and manufacturing, it had the in centive of following the established flag and fighting under the time-honored emblems, it had the organized Union army and navy to blockade the ports of the entire south. When we look at these advantages and then see what the South did, we are overcome with awe and reverence. The bravery of the southern soldiers at Chancellorsville, at the Wilderness, at Fredericksburg, and at Gettysburg has called forth the admiration of the entire world. In fact no braver band of men ever marched under the starry canopy than the men of the South who left their homes, their wives, and their children to fight for their rights.

When we consider the mighty deeds that were done, we have to admit that the South was upheld by some high motive. That high motive was a clear conscience. "Thrice armed is he who hath his quarrel just." The people of the South did what they thought was their duty, and the angels of heaven could have done no more.

Another reason for their fighting so well is that they were working in defense of their homes. "To be happy at home is the ultimate result of all ambition; the end to which every enterprise and labor tends, and of which every desire prompts the prosecution." There is no man who will not do more when he realizes that the lives of loved ones depends upon his success. Fathers, husbands, brothers, sweethearts, all fought with a determination that can be aroused only from a desire to protect and to save.

But to me the bravest deeds were done after the close of the terrible struggle in rebuilding the torn down South. It was then that all the manhood and the divine spark in man were called into action more than at any other time. To return and find the once beautiful home in ashes and the farm devastated, to find children starving for food and shivering for a piece of clothing to cover their naked bodies, to find the wife haggard, sick, and almost ready to breathe her last, I say this was more than a brave and trusting man could endure.

Again just as the clouds of war had disappeared there came a dark and stormy night of three or four years, a night in which the flower of American womanhood was subjected to the greatest insult that can be imagined by the most brutal brain, the time of the carpet bag government. I am not quarreling with the North as a whole, They knew not what they did. But I dare say that there has never been a period of slavery in the history of the world in which more actual human humiliation and untold bodily anguish had to be endured than that the fairest flowers of the South, those whose faces were fairer than the lilies of the valley and whose hearts were as pure as the snow on the mountain peak, had to undergo, during the period of negro domination. I know not whose fault it was, but it took brave and fearless men to organize the Ku Klux Klan in direct opposition to the national laws and protect our mothers and our aunts.

It indeed is a pleasure for any one to witness a meeting of these soldiers to whom we owe what we are. It is a pleasure to see their glad expression as they grasp the hands of comrades who stood together for four years and aided each other in their wounded condition. It is a pleasure to hear them talk over the exploits and their battles, their good times and their hard times. Yet, too, there is a degree of sadness about their meetings. Some faces usually seen will not be seen this year, others will not appear again. "As the rose-tree is composed of the sweetest flowers and the sharpest thorns; as the heavens are sometimes fair and sometimes overcast, alternately tempestuous and serene; so is the life of man intermingled with hopes and fears, with joys and sorrows, with pleasures and with pains."
